1. Introduction

1.1. Gender Scorecard of the UNCT in Turkmenistan

The UN Country Team (UNCT) in Turkmenistan delivers technical support in the country by implementing the new Partnership Framework for Development (PFD) for the period of 2016-2020, SDGs, joint programming and other initiatives. UNCT is working on establishing an appropriate mechanism towards the adoption coherent approach in the gender equality and women empowerment.

In January 2015, the Human Rights, and Gender Theme Group (HRGTG) composed of resident UN agencies, including UNDP, UNFPA, UNICEF, WHO, UNODC, IOM, WB, UN Women and UNRCCA, was created to mainstream in their activities human rights and gender equality. In 2016, activity of the Group was extended and youth component was added (HRGYTG). This group aimed to provide leadership for more consistent and coherent actions among UN Agencies to address human rights and gender equality in the context of the UN’s assistance.

UNCT prepared a new Partnership Framework for Development (PFD) for 2016-2020, signed by the Government of Turkmenistan and the United Nations in Turkmenistan in April 2016. According to normative principles and recommendations of international treaties in which gender equality is one of the key crosscutting issues, it is important to take stocks of experiences and good practices on promoting gender equality and mainstreaming gender into different areas. In 2016, the UNCT decided to conduct a Gender Scorecard exercise with the following purposes:

- To assist PFD Results Groups (5 groups) in gender mainstreaming in their activities;
- To assist UNCT in identifying areas in which they are meeting or not meeting minimum standards on mainstreaming gender within their programs and projects;
- To stimulate a constructive dialogue within the UNCT about the current status of support for gender equality and women’s empowerment and how it can be improved specifically in relation to the human rights based approach; to identify where technical assistance can support the achievement of minimum standards;
- To support sharing of good practices in gender mainstreaming and the promoting of gender equality and women’s empowerment within the UN joint programming and advocacy.

1.2. Methodology

The Gender Scorecard’s goal is to assess the effectiveness of the UNCT gender mainstreaming strategy in support of gender equality and women’s empowerment in eight dimensions:

- Planning
- Programming
- Partnerships
- Policies and capacities
- Decision-making
- Budgeting
- Monitoring and evaluation
- Quality control and accountability
The score ranges from 0 to 5, with 0 as “not applicable”, 1 as “missing”, 2 as “inadequate”, 3 as “needs improvement”, 4 as “meets minimum standards” and 5 as “exceeds minimum standards.”

Independent international consultant, Dinara Alimdjanova, was recruited to carry out this exercise between 1st October and 4th November 2016. In the first step, the consultant reviewed background documents\(^2\), and then conducted interviews with key stakeholders. During these interviews, the consultant used a generic questionnaires provided by the UNCT Performance Indicators for Gender Equality Users’ Guide and adapted to Turkmenistan context. The Consultant conducted 27 interviews. Due to tight timeframe and schedule of the interviewees, around 5-6 interviews were conducted on certain days, 33 key informants participated in this exercise. The Consultant initiated Workshop on UNCT gender mainstreaming activities, promotion of gender equality and women’s empowerment and review of the drafted Gender Scorecard Exercise Rating Table. UNCT participated in discussion on gaps in gender mainstreaming within UNCT activities, identification of the status of support for gender equality and women’s empowerment, their access to services and key resources and promoting of gender equality within UN joint programming and advocacy. The Lesson learned indicated that participation on the Workshop provide an opportunity for UNCT to identify themselves gaps and to assess the level of their activities towards gender equality and women’s empowerment. UNCT discussed and evaluated work per dimension and themselves defined an average score per each dimension.

Outputs of this exercise are (i) a gender scorecard, which presents detailed rating of each dimension, and (ii) a narrative report, in which key findings and follow-up activities discussed.

Key Findings

Strengths

The UNCT in Turkmenistan has made achievements in the following areas:

- Established partnership with national counterparts at the Government level, provide effective support in strengthening the national policy framework on implementing CEDAW, participated in development and promotion (UNFPA involved) of the National Gender Action Plan for Gender Equality (NAPGE).
- Critical capacity gaps identified (UNFPA/UNICEF) in two critical areas such as Gender Based Violence (GBV) and statistics - availability of sex-disaggregated data.
- Drafted Framework for formulation of NAPGE Monitoring Indicators and planned to establish National Mechanism for NAPGE monitoring.
- The promotion of gender equality plays a certain role (Outcome 6, Indicator 6.3 gender sensitive) in a new Partnership Framework for Development (PFD) for 2016-2020, key document, signed by the government of Turkmenistan and the United Nations in Turkmenistan. The development of this document was on lessons learned from the UNDAF for the period of 2010-2015, which was gender neutral.

\(^2\) Reviewed documents listed in Appendix A
UNCT have assisted the National Institute for Democracy and Human Rights under the President of Turkmenistan, as the responsible national agency for the human rights and gender equality. UNCT provided support to strengthen the capacity of the Institute staff to conduct gender expertise of the Constitution of Turkmenistan and to make relevant changes: ex. updated Articles 27 and 40 of the Constitution which proclaim equal civil rights for men and women, and equal rights for men and women in family relations. Besides, the updated version of the Constitution includes Article 29 in which equal rights and opportunities for men and women in Turkmenistan proclaimed.

UNCT initiated creation of a favorable environment for joint efforts in promoting gender equality and women’s empowerment. In January 2015, the Human Rights and Gender Theme Group (HRGTG) composed of resident UN agencies was created to mainstream in their activities human rights and gender equality. In 2016, activities of the Group extended and youth component was added (HRGYTG).

The first Joint Programme on promoting women’s human rights and elimination of violence against women was developed.

Each agency nominated Gender Focal Point from their staff to work pluralistically.

UNCT initiated Gender Scorecard Exercise.

2.1. Weaknesses

Following weaknesses identified in promoting gender equality within the UN in Turkmenistan:

The PFD 2016-2020 needs to be more gender sensitized. Gender implications are missing in some important areas of possible interventions, and not mentioned in outcomes description, and this will reflect in missing gender implication in outputs formulation and rationale.

There is only Outcome 4 that specifically only refer to women and children. Other Outcomes are gender neutral.

There are 39 indicators at outcome level with 4 indicators that are women specific which is 10%, only 5 indicators are sex-disaggregated which is 12.8%, and 3 indicators are gender sensitive which is 7.6%.

Gender sensitivity needs to be incorporated in PFD formulations and avoid the usage of gender blind terms. For example, the PFD 2016-2020 adopts the terms “quality and inclusive”, “aligned with international standards” (Outcome 1, Outcome 2, indicator 2.2; Outcome 3, Outcome 7 use this term). The use of this gender neutral and broad term risks the Outputs and indicators being less specific and relevant. Results targeting women and girls and measured by quantitative indicators do not necessarily promote gender equality.

There are terminological inaccuracies: term ‘gender-disaggregation’ of data needs replacement by ‘sex-disaggregation’ in all documents.

Main documents developed using ‘women’ focused approach and gender equality mentioned on residual secondary principle. Ex. Output 5 in UNFPA CPAP 2016 formulated as follows: “Strengthen national policies through increased use of gender disaggregated data and integration of evidence-based analysis on population dynamics, reproductive health and reproductive rights, adolescents and youth and gender equality” Within the developing outcome indicators issues relevant to gender equality missed. Suggested changed formulation is:” Strengthen national policies through increased use of sex-disaggregated data and integration of evidence-based gender analysis on population dynamics, reproductive health and reproductive rights, adolescents and youth.” For ex. Due to this change UNFPA CP Output 5 Indicator 1 will be more clear from gender perspectives: “Number of government institutions with up-to-date expertise in population data gender analysis and dissemination.”

- In PFD Implementation Matrix Outcome 2 mostly focused on key sexual and reproductive health education, however, establishment of gender friendly environment at schools and gender expertise of school curricula and textbooks will be helpful in promoting high quality and inclusive education in line with international standards.

- Similar problem with UN Women drafted CP: in the para III Declaration of Cooperation two strategic areas were identified for cooperation: i) Women’s Economic Empowerment; ii) National Planning and Budgeting”. Gender equality, which is mandatory for UN is missing, and this negatively will be reflected in Gender responsive policy formulation, planning and budgeting.

- Since Gender mainstreaming is mandatory for UN Agencies, UNCT activities should include main elements of gender mainstreaming institutionalization, such as gender analysis, sector–specific gender surveys, gender-sensitive studies, gender-impact analysis methodologies, the creation of accountability mechanism for gender mainstreaming and etc. Even UNCT’s Gender Mainstreaming Strategy is not available.

- Capacity gaps nationally and in UN agencies need to be clearly identified, and training program on methodologies of socio-economic and gender analysis applicable for Turkmenistan context should be developed;

- There is a general need to develop sectoral gender mainstreaming methodological tool/guide with the focus on program objectives to ensure that these are used by the full range of staff.

- Gender awareness trainings needed to be made more relevant by being linked to the needs of the sectors.

- Short refresher trainings for staff at different levels and partners are necessary to keep gender issues alive.

- Gender mainstreaming in HRGYTG is limited for two main reasons. Firstly, the work on gender mainstreaming needs to be better structured. It is a challenge for GFPs to support these HRGYTG in gender mainstreaming. Secondly, even GFPs have a clear role to mainstream gender within the programmes and projects, they lack of adequate capacity to carry out their work; their TOR for gender mainstreaming needs to be revised based on the concept and methods for mainstreaming gender equality.3

- GFPs in all areas and levels (including responsible partners from the line ministries) should understand that the work of such gender sensitive professionals do not require additional time allocation for ‘gender related’ activities; GFPs should be equipped with specific methodological tools on promoting gender mainstreaming within the work in their sectors, including clear steps on ‘how to’.

• Lack of capacity limits advocacy for gender mainstreaming at national level. Suggestion is to engage senior gender adviser to ensure that PFD and Joint Programmes are gender responsive and to monitor this work; senior gender adviser responsibilities to include involvement in needs assessment, program concept development, ensure actions take towards gender equality with adequate budget allocations, targets and indicators, and an en-gendered M&E framework and reporting process; coordinate capacity building with the focus on gender analysis in UNCT and in all national counterparts, including ministries;

• Some Heads of Agencies admit that understanding of gender mainstreaming is weak, and it is still a tendency to equate programming that addresses specific women’s issues. While there has been improvement in capacity development for UN staff and each staff member has to complete mandatory online UN Gender awareness training, there are some UNCT members who informed that gender training they attended are still at the introductory level.

• Due to the lack of capacities, Gender-sensitive budgeting remains a challenge to the UNCT and national partners in Turkmenistan. According to the UN Women plan, there should be some groundwork done in 2016 so that the concept will be familiar for state agencies.

• Lack of capacities of Joint team reflected in a weak gender analysis in main UN documents and low demand for available sex-disaggregated data for proper gender analysis at different levels.

2.3. Good practices in gender mainstreaming

Throughout the Gender Scorecard exercise, the following good practices have been identified:

- The coordinated efforts from HRGYTG have contributed to gender mainstreaming in key national policy documents, including National Gender Action Plan for Gender Equality (NAPGE).
- Established partnership with national counterparts at the Government level, provide effective support in strengthening the national policy framework on implementing CEDAW.
- Critical capacity gaps identified in two critical areas such as Gender Based Violence (GBV) and statistics- availability of sex-disaggregated data and activities to address these gaps identified in NAPGE.
- UNCT have assisted the National Institute for Democracy and Human Rights under the President of Turkmenistan, as the responsible national agency for the human rights and gender equality. UN provided support to strengthen the capacity of the Institute staff to conduct gender expertise of the Constitution of Turkmenistan and to make relevant changes: ex. updated Articles 27 and 40 of the Constitution proclaim equal civil rights for men and women, and equal rights for men and women in family relations.
